I O

*It's been over two years since I spent six months in the Northern Territory working on a commission and exploring the surrounding landscape. The intense emotional veracity of the last series of works, Symphony, has given way to a subtler interpretation of the same sense memories.*

Ten is a continuation of that conversation, through the lens of time. The works are fantastical reimaginings of past experience, more heavily steeped in meditation and in the internal return of heart and mind to a previous sanctuary.
